

DAILY LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT.

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY: WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 12, 1861.

VOLUME XVII.

Daily Democrat.

FOR CONGRESS,
ROBERT MALLORY.

RE—We have again and again stated the position of Kentucky, and the reasons for it. She protested against a sectional party aiming at sectional domination, foretold its dangers, and the consequences of its success. When this party elected a President, Kentucky protested against the bloody remedy of South Carolina; she was unanimous against the criminal act. Her wishes were not heeded. She then strove to obtain some terms of adjustment; some formal evidence that the South was not ignored by the powers at Washington; in that she failed. She then cherished the hope that the forbearance of the Administration would avoid any chance for collision with the revolutionists, convinced that if let alone, the people South would bring the revolutionists to their senses, and prevent a division of the country. At every turn Kentucky has been disappointed. She utterly repudiated these revolutionary and Jacobinical movements in the South, and protests against the division and destruction of this country. In this contest, then, she would well claim to be neutral; it is no fight of hers. She has protested against every step that led to it.

We do not know what is to be the end of the contest; but we have too much reason to fear that war alone will not end in a settlement that will save the Constitution and the liberties of either section of the Union.

We are marching on the road in which his story shows us every people have lost their liberties. Our people seem to think that the right of self-government is a necessity to them; that it can't be lost; that we are in no danger of despotism; and yet there is nothing more true than the maxim that "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance." Before propositions for peace will ever be listened to, some guarantees for what the South does not consider rights must be offered. No matter for victories at great cost, they will not subjugate the South. They will be barren. No section of this Union will ever submit to humiliation. It is true that money enough and men enough can subjugate any people; but who has money and men enough to assume to subjugate the South?

No power, unless controlled by a central despotism, could accomplish this, no matter how great its resources. It is the first duty of Government to offer terms of settlement. Conciliation is necessary and indispensable. The pride of party and pride of opinion must come down on the part of the majority. We know that nothing is desired, and that nothing will be accepted by the men of the South who started this revolution. It would be the death of their cherished hopes and the end of their political lives. Just now, the people of the seceded States would listen to no terms, perhaps. In the hour of madness there is room for no thought, but resistance and revenge. They cannot be brought independent to the voice of justice and conciliation. These terms are not for either the disunionists per se, or for the men inflamed by madness and the worst apprehensions. They are for the real friends of the Union in the South, who see no cause for secession; who want the security that this war will not end in a sacrifice of constitutional rights; that the Government restored will be the old Government our fathers made. It must be confessed that there are ominous signs in both sections of the Union that our institutions are undergoing a change; that State lines will be obliterated, and a central power will be installed in each section, little dependent on the popular will, and that the popular will itself will be subject to the passions and the terrors that have subjugated all other people to arbitrary rule. It is ominous that there is now little freedom of thought, and none hardly of speech, in either section of the Union. Loyalty to the successful leader will be the substitute for loyalty to our institutions in a short time.

We assure the North, most solemnly, that the terms proposed, and which are familiar to the country, must be adopted, or something equivalent, or this generation will not see the end of this war. It is idle to protest at the rights of States, or to change the basis of our institutions. Men will not listen to words. Let the guarantees be given that these things shall not be done now or hereafter.

RE—The Mobile Daily Register and the Daily Advertiser of that place, have merged into one. The two establishments are now one in interest. Hereafter the paper will be called the Mobile Advertiser and Register.

RE—The Savannah Republican says every bale of cotton, and every cotton field in bloom, will be burnt before Southern cotton shall leave the South except through Southern ports.

RE—We find the following obituary notice of the famous floating battery in a letter from Charleston to the Philadelphia Bulletin:

"Major Anderson fired a few shot at it. After the 'victorious' victory it was found to be nearly knocked to pieces. The guns were hastily removed and the thing towed away (by means of the 'navy') to the Ashley river. The tide has filled it with mud and sand, and that is the end of the poor old floating battery."

WANTED—POFFING.—A lover, vainly trying to explain some scientific theory to his fair interests, said:

"The question is difficult, and I don't see what I can do to make it clear."

"Suppose you pop it," whispered the blushing damsels.

RE—In the game of life men most frequently play the know and women the deuce.

RE—The editor of a paper in Indiana wants to know if Western whisky was ever seen "comin' thro' the rye."

RE—The New York Herald goes for Frank Blair for Speaker of the House of Representatives, and John B. Haskins, of New York, for Clerk, in place of Colonel Foy.

RE—The "Palmer Guards," Company C, Texas Battalion, Capt. A. G. Dickerson, 80 men, passed through here yesterday morning on their way to Virginia.

RE—The custom house at Atlanta, Ga., has been demolished. This is in consequence of the admission of Tennessee into the Confederate States. Custom houses will be established in Tennessee, and custom house officers placed all along the southern border of Kentucky.

RE—AN INVENTION.—Robert Gamble Jr., Esq., of Tallahassee, Fla., has invented what is denominated a rotary floating battery, which is approved by the War Department of the Confederate States, and will probably be experimented upon before Fort Monroe.—N. O. C. G.

RE—LEOT.—At Pekin, says that the estimate of the London Times, that the estimate of the British army, says that the estimate of the Emperor's summer palace exceeds £6,000,000 sterling. Every soldier who was present is replace with the most valuable booty. Domestic articles in pure gold, and gems of great value, are in possession of many of the men.

RE—SHOT AND KILLED.—At Columbia, Chico, Arkansas, on a Tuesday, a violent dispute occurred between the parties to a suit for malicious prosecution, growing out of the recent murder of a Mr. Whitesides, in that county. A conflict between the parties and their friends occurred, which resulted in the mortal wounding of two men and one woman. So high did the passions of the different factions run, and so imminent was the danger of a general conflict, that Judge Graham esteemed it his duty to order out the militia to suppress the riot.—Gloucester Free-Press.

DR. SHALENBURGER—Dear Sir: I have to state that your Fever and Ague Antidote is daily growing in favor, and needs no putting to recommend it, as its own merits are sufficient, whereas a trial has been made. I believe it has never failed where the administration has been proceeded with in accordance with the directions. It is a pleasure to sell medicines that meet the expectation of purchasers and give satisfaction, and as such I am proud to recommend your Pills.

INDEPENDENCE, KY., Aug. 26, '61.
Dear Sir: For the past several months I have been laboring under great weakness and general debility, much of the time confined to my bed, and from which I received no benefit from my physician. After using some of your blood pills and blood purifier, purchased of your agent, Mr. Wm. H. Plummer, I feel as a new person, almost entirely free from disease, and would recommend your medicines to all who are in need of so invaluable remedies.

Yours, truly,

MARY Y. HOFFMAN.

We would call particular attention to McLean's notice in another column. We add the following from the St. Louis Herald, which speaks volumes in its favor. We shall give it a trial:

"We take especial pleasure in recommending McLean's celebrated Strengthening Cordial as an invaluable remedy for general debility and weakness. We have seen it tested in a circle under our own immediate observation, and vaugh for its efficacy and worth. It is an article which should be kept constantly in every family, as it is certainly an invaluable medicine. See the advertisement in another column.

Atrophy or miasmus, melancholy, and indescribable lassitude, with physical and mental depression, are frequent complaints with the old and young of both sexes; the causes are various; with men, it may arise from disease or over attention to business or study; with women, to sedentary habits or over-taxed maternity; the only specific for these and such like visitations is the far-famed WRIGHT'S REJUVENATING Elixir; it is exhilarating, tonic, restorative, and briskly composed of vegetable productions, is a sworn foe of all the dangerous minerals of the day, and will assuredly expel mercury and its evil influences from the system. Sold by all respectable druggists throughout the United States and Canada. J. Wright & Co., sole proprietors, New Orleans, La. See advertisement in another column.
